Congratulations to Alister Yiap, jeweller turned public artist. Alister's sculpture Dancing Feathers has been installed in the City of Melville.

This sculpture is based on an emu feather, acknowledging the emu's traditional presence in the Willagee area which is understood to be a former emu breeding ground.

The forms symbolise a mating pair and reference the balance and strength of the native Australian birds; imitating their curves, silhouette, long legs and agile neck.

The work consists of two pairs; one sculpture is located at Carawatha Park, the other on the corner of Archibald Street and North Lake Road at the "entrance" to Willagee.
